

DRAFT

GCSE

CLASSICAL CIVILISATION

This qualification provides an excellent introduction to the classical world, covering the study of both Greek and Roman literature and civilisations. The GCSE has been designed to be flexible, accessible and attractive to a wide variety of learners. There is also the option to take Classical Civilisation GCSE as a short course, which offers further flexibility by allowing candidates to focus on either literature in translation, or on civilisation, or a mixture of both.

What's happening to GCSEs?

OCR is offering new GCSEs for first teaching in September 2009*.

We've taken this opportunity to improve the quality of our GCSEs for teachers and learners alike.

We've made improvements in three key areas: updated and relevant content, a focus on developing students' personal, learning and thinking skills, and flexible assessment, so teachers can choose the best learning approach for the job.

We want to make the introduction of these new GCSEs as easy for you to manage as possible.

The main changes are:

- Controlled assessment will be introduced for most subjects
- The opportunity will be taken to bring course content up to date
- Examinations should provide opportunity for extended writing and more varied question types
- All GCSEs will meet the requirements of the Disability Discrimination Act.

Our approach is to provide consistency across all our GCSEs by offering the flexibility that unitised qualifications bring, allowing teaching and assessment in either a linear or unitised fashion.

*Not all GCSEs are changing. There are a few exceptions: the new Science GCSE was introduced in 2006. New English, English Literature, ICT and Maths GCSEs will be offered for first teaching in 2010.

Improving GCSE Classical Civilisation with OCR

We've involved teachers throughout the development process, so the new specifications, support materials and schemes of work should be exactly what you need to teach OCR GCSE Classical Civilisation. To ensure accuracy in our content, we've also consulted subject associations, professional membership groups, subject societies and other subject experts.

Our GCSE Classical Civilisation offers:

- The study of either Greek or Roman civilisation and literature, or both Greek and Roman civilisation and literature
- A short course option of only two units, but with the opportunity to top up to the full course if desired
- An option for up to 50% of student assessment to be completed before the end of the two-year course.

Making change easy

We'd like to make these changes as easy for you to manage as possible. To minimise disruption, we will:

- Guide you through the process of moving to OCR
- Bring you the latest information through our Focus on 14–19 magazine and our new website www.GCSEchanges.com
- Show you approved specifications one year ahead of first teaching, so you have plenty of preparation time
- Offer you a range of OCR support materials, including schemes of work and sample assessment materials, as we did with GCEs
- Make OCR's publisher partner resources – tailored to the new specifications – available from January 2009
- Endorse a variety of published resources, giving you a wider choice of quality support materials.

We're also running extra INSET and training courses across the UK, so now it's even easier to discover how OCR has developed its specifications.

Controlled assessment

While reviewing GCSEs, QCA looked into the coursework element of the current qualifications and decided to introduce controlled assessment as an alternative to coursework. This will address some of the issues raised in recent coursework reviews, such as plagiarism.

Controlled assessment has to be done in a supervised environment. However, if the task has a research element, the student may complete this without supervision.

The benefits of controlled assessment include:

- More straightforward marking – for most subjects, we provide worksheets for students to complete
- Improved reliability and validity
- Varying levels of control, to help you manage the assessments and your time more easily
- Greater confidence in authenticating students' work as their own
- Greater ease in fitting assessments into your normal teaching programmes.

For GCSE Classical Civilisation, controlled assessment means:

- Task setting – One controlled assessment task will be available from OCR for each of the six options within the controlled assessment unit.
- Task taking – Has been divided into two categories: research/data collection; and analysis and evaluation of findings. Research/data collection will be completed under limited supervision. Analysis and evaluation of findings will be completed under formal supervised conditions and candidates will use their research to write approximately 2,000 words in response to the task set.
- Task marking – Centres use the OCR marking criteria to mark the controlled assessment, which is then moderated by OCR.

We will review our controlled assessment tasks every year.

Flexible assessment

The assessment for the new OCR GCSEs is organised into units which can either all be taken at the end of the course in a linear fashion, or be used to complement a more unitised approach to teaching and learning. This gives you the flexibility to choose the assessment approach best suited to your centre and your students. A unitised structure gives you the flexibility to co-teach short and full courses.

We already offer assessments that are organised into units at A Level and for some existing GCSEs. For many subjects, assessments will be available twice a year. Flexible assessment means:

- You will have a choice of learning approaches – linear or unitised
- The assessment can be timed to match the point of learning within the course, making it easier for candidates to show what they know, understand and can do
- Students can re-sit a unit rather than repeat the entire assessment
- Some students are motivated by ongoing feedback and this helps them identify their learning needs
- A unitised approach makes it easier for students to stay on track with their studies and manage their time effectively
- The pressure of an 'all or nothing' assessment is removed
- Examination stress is reduced by permitting assessment over a longer period so that not all assessments are concentrated in a narrow window at the end of two years

- With a similar format to A Levels and Diplomas, GCSEs will help prepare students for the next phase of their education.

To ensure that the assessment supports the coherence of the GCSEs and there is no over-assessment, QCA has put two rules in place: 40% of the assessment must happen at the end of the course and only one re-sit of each assessment unit is allowed.

You may know 'unitised' as modular.

Unit title and description	Assessment including duration	Weighting (including short course weightings)
Unit A351: City Life in the Classical World <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Option 1: Athens Option 2: Rome. 	Written examination 1 hour	25% full course 50% short course
Unit A352: Epic and Myth <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Option 1: Homer's The Odyssey Option 2: Ovid's Metamorphoses. 	Written examination 1 hour	25% full course 50% short course
Unit A353: Community Life in the Classical World <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Option 1: Sparta Option 2: Pompeii. 	Written examination 1 hour	25% full course 50% short course
Unit A354: Culture and Society in the Classical World <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Option 1: Sophocles' Antigone Option 2: Aristophanes' Lysistrata Option 3: The Olympic Games Option 4: Virgil's The Aeneid Option 5: Pliny's Letters Option 6: Roman Britain. 	Controlled assessment	25% full course 50% short course

Assessment objectives

Candidates are expected to demonstrate the following in the context of the content described:

AO1

- Recall, select and organise relevant knowledge of literature and its contexts and/or of society and values of the classical world.

AO2

- Demonstrate an understanding of literature and its contexts and/or society and values of the classical world.

AO3

- Interpret, evaluate and respond to literature and its contexts and/or sources related to society and values of the classical world.

Short courses

We also offer a short course in GCSE Classical Civilisation, equivalent to half a GCSE. This offers several advantages:

- There are only two units to complete.
- Students who are interested in a particular subject, but don't have time to study a full course, have more learning options.
- Students can study a wider range of subjects.
- Timetabling for shorter courses can be easier for your centre.
- More able students can complement their studies by taking additional short courses.
- Short courses can be spread over one or two years.

What changes, and what stays the same?

	What changes?	What stays the same?
Structure	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The GCSE is now unitised• There are now four units• Units A351, A352 and A353 contain two options each• Unit A354 (controlled assessment) contains six options• The structure of the course has been simplified.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Higher and Foundation tiers have been kept• There is an option to study a different option within each unit, but this has been simplified.
Content	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Popular topic areas have been kept and reorganised• It is now possible to study only literature or civilisation through the GCSE short course, as well as it being possible to study both.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Learners can still study Greek literature and civilisation, or Roman literature and civilisation, or a combination of both Greek and Roman literature and civilisation, as they wish.
Assessment	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The GCSE can now be sat as either a modular or a linear course, with options to sit examinations in year 10.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• There are separate papers for the Foundation and Higher tiers• There is a reduction in the amount of examination time.

Support for GCSE Classical Civilisation teachers

OCR offers a range of support materials, developed following extensive research and consultation with teachers. We've designed them to save you time when preparing for the new specifications and to support you while teaching them.

Our support materials and events include face-to-face training courses, schemes of work that you can customise, endorsed publisher partner resources, access to teacher and examiner networks (both online and offline), plus an extensive past-papers service.

OCR's online resources include:

- E-communities – online networks of subject specialists for sharing knowledge, views and ideas
- Interchange – a completely free and secure website that helps you carry out the administrative tasks associated with examinations quickly and easily
- Past examination papers
- Marking schemes
- Subject e-alerts – for teachers who register for updates.

We offer a wide range of training courses in the UK, so you have easy access to information about our new specifications – direct from the experts. See over for more details.

Training for OCR GCSE Classical Civilisation

Our Get Ready events offer a taste of the new specification. Dates are given below, and you can book your place now at www.GCSEchanges.com.

Later, we'll be running our Get Started events, which take you through the specification in more detail and help you work towards first teaching. They will take place during the spring and summer terms 2009.

Get Ready – introducing the new specification (first teaching from September 2009)*

This course is for all teachers – new and experienced – who are interested in finding out more about the new specification. It's open to you, even if you don't teach the current OCR specification.

It's a FREE half-day session, including refreshments, a light finger buffet and course materials, offering an overview of the new OCR specification in GCSE Classical Civilisation. Key features include:

- A look at the new structure, content and assessment methods
- A comparison between old and new specification content
- An introduction to the support and resources available from OCR
- A summary of the benefits of choosing the new OCR specification.

Date	Location	Course code
Wed 9 Jul 08 AM	London	OCCA101
Wed 9 Jul 08 PM	London	OCCA102
Mon 14 Jul 08 AM	Birmingham	OCCA103
Mon 14 Jul 08 PM	Birmingham	OCCA104
Wed 17 Sept 08 AM	Coventry	OCCA105
Wed 17 Sept 08 PM	Coventry	OCCA106
Tues 4 Nov 08 AM	London	OCCA107
Tues 4 Nov 08 PM	London	OCCA108
Fri 14 Nov 08 AM	Manchester	OCCA109
Fri 14 Nov 08 PM	Manchester	OCCA110
Mon 12 Jan 09 AM	London	OCCA111
Mon 12 Jan 09 PM	London	OCCA112

Please note:

- Free OCR Training courses will not incur any penalty fees however, so that we can offer your place to another delegate please notify us in good time of your course cancellation.
- Dates are subject to change so please ensure you read your booking confirmation and web updates as OCR Training cannot be held responsible for delegates who attend on an incorrect date.
- Courses throughout summer 2008 and autumn 2008 terms may be based on the draft specification.
- *The times of these courses may vary from the standard advertised time.

Publishing support for GCSE Classical Civilisation teachers

We're working with publisher partner Oxford University Press to provide further resources to support teachers of the new specification.

To find the latest information on published resources, please visit www.ocr.org.uk/classicalcivilisation/newgcse and choose published resources from the right-hand menu.

www.ocr.org.uk

OCR customer contact centre

Vocational qualifications

Telephone 024 76 851509

Facsimile 024 76 421944

Email vocational.qualifications@ocr.org.uk

General qualifications

Telephone 01223 553998

Facsimile 01223 552627

Email general.qualifications@ocr.org.uk

Head office

1 Hills Road, Cambridge CB1 2EU

Telephone 01223 552552

Facsimile 01223 552553

PART OF THE
CAMBRIDGE ASSESSMENT
GROUP

For staff training purposes and as part of our quality assurance programme your call may be recorded or monitored.

© OCR 2007 Oxford Cambridge and RSA Examinations is a Company Limited by Guarantee. Registered in England.
Registered office 1 Hills Road, Cambridge CB1 2EU. Registered company number 3484466. OCR is an exempt charity.